And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, this bill increases the w ight of a truck and its load from 26,000 pounds to 36,000 pounds. I do not purpose spending very much time in discussing the matter, but it seems to me that 26,000 pounds is such weight that the highways of this State are breaking down under that. Our highways, with concrete paving, will not carry 26,000 pounds, as has been experienced in the State of Pennsylvania. Now, to increase the weight of the class 6 wheel truck to 36,000 pounds without any provision to take care of the counties prerogative in maintaining these roads I think, is totally unfair, and ought not to be assented to by the Senate. There are rich counties in this State that can afford to do this, they can repair their roads and take care of the necessary highways in all parts of the county, but the central counties of Pennsylvania, aside from the tail counties the upper tier counties of the State are not able to support this expense. If the highways themselves would support 36,000 pounds in a truck, the bridges that we have in the small counties will not support this load. In all of the upper tier counties, where we have the streams, the streams that flow into the Delaware I am speaking of particularly—we have a great many county bridges and we do not have the funds with which to rebuild these bridges. They do not now sustain safely 26,000 pounds, and to increase this weight by five more tons simply means that these bridges will be broken down. We have our counties bonded now to maintain more highways, and we ar unable to rebuild bridges to support these trucks.

This kind of legislation, it seems to me, can be fostered only by big trucking concerns and by the railroads of Pennsylvania. Such trucks are not necessary for ordinary business. They are not necessary for the transaction of the farmers' business or of the people who live along the highway, the people who have to pay these expenses..

Mr. President, without spending any more time on it, I hope this bill will be defeated.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President. I am sorry that the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, is misinformed so far as the contents of this bill are concerned. Instead of increasing the permissible load of a motor-truck from 26,000 pounds to 36,000 pounds it decreases the permissible load of a six-wheel conveyance from 39,000 pounds to 36,000 pounds.

The law of Pennsylvania today is that on a four-wheel truck a load of 26,000 pounds is permissible. To that you can attach a single-axle two-wheel trailer and add another 13,000 pounds to the load, making the load on a six-wheel conveyance today permissible under the law 39,000 pounds. All that this bill does is to provide for the construction and use upon the highways of Pennsylvania of a six-wheel single-unit truck permitting the conveyance of a load of 36,000 pounds, which is 3,000 pounds, or a ton and a half, less than is permissible at the present time to be carried by a two-unit conveyance composed of a tractor and trailer, and everybody knows that a single unit six-wheel conveyance is not as hard and not as destructive to the concrete roads as the loosely attached trailer which wobbles and swishes and destroys the highway by its unsteady connection with the main tractor.

This measure proposes recognition and classification of motor vehicles of more than four wheels. Its provisions are based on standards established by the United States Bureau of Public Tests. Similar provisions have been in force in California, Arkansas, Maine and Missouri for at least one year. The Legislature of Maryland just recently enacted such a law. The Legislature of New York had also enacted such a law, but in a spirit of retaliation between the Governor and the Legislature of New York, which unfortunately, as in the State of New Jersey, is composed of different political parties, the Governor of the State of New York in retaliation for the opposition of the Assembly to the increase of the gasoline tax, vetoed that bill. But I say, the States of the Union that today have such a law are California, Arkansas, Maine, Missouri and Maryland

Mr. President, I have here a copy of a letter, written on the 8th day of this month by Mr. J. N. Machall, the Chairman of the State Roads Commission of the State of Maryland, in which he says this: "We have for several years licensed a 5-ton truck and a 5-ton semi-trailer operated together to have a pay load of 10 tons, theoretically, 5 tons on each of the vehicles providing they have sufficient tire width. This Legislature has made a big step in the right direction by licensing six wheel trucks to do the same thing. We are now licensing a six wheel truck to carry 10 tons to have a gross weight of not more than 40,000 pounds and to have a tire capacity not greater than 650 pounds per inch of width.

"The recent tests conducted by the State of Illinois and the Bureau of Public Roads in Washington demonstrated quite conclusively that it is only necessary to have the axles three feet apart for six wheel trucks on semi-trailers for each of the wheels to act independently upon the highway Since the six wheel truck cannot have its axles nearer than about 46 inches apart we have made no requirement as to the distance between axles. There was some little opposition to the licensing of the six wheel truck in Maryland by the trailer people but when the great advantage of hauling heavy loads on three axles instead of two axles were pointed out to the Legislature the trailer fellows sought cover pretty quickly. Indeed I think the six wheel truck is a tremenduous step in the direction of hauling big loads without damage to the highways. There are cases where it is necessary to haul heavy loads and the six wheel truck permits a distribution which is a decided benefit to the road itself."

I have here, Mr. President, "Public Roads", a journal of highway research, United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads. And I read from it the following: "The Six-Wheel Truck and the Pavement. Tests conducted by the United States Bureau of Public Roads to Determine the Relative Effect of Four and Six Wheel Trucks.

"Tests conducted recently by the United States Bureau of Public Roads indicate definitely that the tensile stress set up in a concrete pavement by a six-wheel truck is only about half as great as the stress produced by a four-wheel truck of the same gross load. The tests show also that the stress produced in the pavement by the six-wheel vehicles is a function of the load on the wheels and not of the axle spacing. This seems to be true for all spacings of the rear axles greater than 3 feet, there being some indication that when the wheels are closer together than 36 inches the stress produced in the pavement may be increased.

"The six wheel truck is the motor-vehicle designers' solution of the problem presented by the demand for vehicles which will carry heavy 'pay loads' without violation of the restrictive regulations adopted for the protection of the highways."

And I say to our friend from Monroe County that there is nothing in this bill that is in any way harder upon the highways than what we are allowed by the law in the State to do, nor upon the bridges; but it reduces the load, and it is a great step forward in the right direction. It reduces the permissible three-axle six-wheel load from 39,000 pounds to 36,000 pounds, and the only difference is that the load may be hauled in a single-unit truck.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, if you will bear with me for a moment, I cannot agree positively with the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, when he says the larger the load the less the wear on the highway. While it is true the law at present says that you may carry but 26,000 pounds on a truck, you may use a separate trailer eight feet in the rear of the rear axle. That was designed to allow the telephone companies, electric light companies and those who had to carry long hauls of great weight an opportunity to carry them over the highway. But the basis of that law was the provision that you had the right to carry 26,000 pounds, and that is all it does mean; the other is an exception.

This bill proposes to permit the carying on that truck not only 26,000 pounds but 36,000 pounds. It also permits the carrying of a trailer behind that.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, no.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, yes, it does at the present time; it provides for a close-coupled truck,—three feet, thirty-six inches, is the distance between the rear axles. The present law provides there must be a distance of eight feet between the rear axles. Now then, does any Senator believe that by putting 36,000 pounds on this proposed truck it will be easier on the highways than what is provided in the old law? It does not make any difference to me if the State Highway Department does want this bill; I say for the sake of the Highway Department's bill that the present load is too heavy for the present building of the highways. In some of the States they are beginning to build industrial highways to take care of this kind of traffc.

Now then, if we must have this kind of truck in Pennsylvania, it seems to me the people who want to use the truck—instead of occupying the highways with these big trucks, the ordinary highways built for the common people, they should build their own highways. And that has been talked about. Until that happens we ought not to pass a law here permitting the present highways to be cluttered up with moving vehicles of this size.

Of course, they do not go in New Jersey or New York, because there the political parties are so evenly divided no one party can force through an idea of this kind, because the opposition is there to criticize it.

And I am appealing to the independent Senators here today not to force this on Pennsylvania. We do not have money enough to take care of the ordinary highways in these counties, and we are not prepared to take care of this kind of a highway. Does any man believe that an ordinary county bridge of 200-foot span will carry this proposed load?—and with less danger than it carries the load under the present law? Not at all.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. President, I would like to inject a few remarks into this discussion. I would like to interrogate the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, about this truck.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. President, I want to tell the Senators at this moment that I am not agreeing with the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, for the purpose of patronage next time, because he has been elected President Pro Tempore; I am speaking from the standpoint of a man who has been deceived and deluded. I have been told by the exponents who are antagonizing this bill that it will carry 39,000 pounds; but my friends, including the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Bonbrake, in whom I have the most implicit confidence, have told me that during the hours of our midnight revels this bill has been amended, and I want to ask the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, if it is true that he has amended this bill to reduce the weight from 39,000 pounds to 36,000 pounds.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, it is absolutely true,—I have not done it but the Senate did it.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. President, of course. In view of the fact that the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, has been so kind to us, and exerted all the power and personality to reduce this bill from 39,000 pounds to 36,000 pounds, I think I will withdraw all moral objections; and I do not think it is an immoral bill. Therefore, I unqualifiedly state that I will vote "aye", if I am allowed to, on this bill.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I am delighted with the conversion, and I hope many will follow suit if they have the same information as the Senator from Montgomery, and will take the same enlightened stand he does.

I want to say to the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, that he is absolutely mistaken in thinking that there could be attached to this three-axle six-wheel truck another trailer, making it a conveyonce of four axles and eight wheels. That would be absolutely against the law. The only thing, I repeat, that this does is to permit the conveyance of a 36,000-pound load on a single-unit truck of three axles and six wheels, instead of hauling a load of 39,000 pounds on three axles in two units consisting of a tractor and trailer,—eighteen tons. That is the law today.

I say to you, members of the Senate,—and I am not misrepresenting in it, because the Highway Department has its representatives here on the sidelines and if I make the least misstatement they would correct me,—I have them here to guide me, so that the statements that I make are absolute facts,—the law is that 39,000 pounds may be the load with a tractor and a trailer, then provides for a load of 26,000 pounds in a one-unit conveyance regardless of size. At the same time the experimental tests of the United State Bureau of Public Roads show that it would be easier on the highway to haul 36,000 pounds in a single-unit conveyance than in the double-unit conveyance we have today. And I ask the Senators to vote in favor of this bill, a measure that is needed for the users of the highways.

We are not building the highways only for the tourists and for luxuries, but for the users of the highways; not for the builders of the trucks, but for the users of the highways; and, for that reason, to meet a demand which is felt, realized in all the States of the Union and which is met in the other States. Under our methods of reciprocity with the other States, when they have allowing trucks of 40,000 pounds certainly 36,000 pounds for Pennsylvania is proper.

I want to say that the roads that have been constructed by the Highway Department have been constructed for 39,000 pounds. The permissible carrying of 39,000 pounds has been the law in Pennsylvania since 1923. All the concrete roads we have constructed have been constructed with durability enough to withstand the carrying of 39,000 pounds; and shall we now say, after we have spent $100,000,000 and more in this State, and are going to put in another $50,000,000,—after we have built the roads with the durability and strength to carry 39,000 pounds, after our money is in there,—are we going to resist and say, "Even though we have built our bridges and concrete roads for 39,000 pounds, we are now going to withdraw and reduce it to 36,000 pounds"?

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, I should like to ask the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, whether it is not the law now that a truck and a trailer may haul over the roads of Pennsylvania 39,000 pounds?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, it is, yes.

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, I would further ask him the percentage of the load that shall be on the truck and the percentage that may be on the trailer.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, 36,000 pounds on the truck.

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, does the law say that a truck and a trailer may haul only 26,000 pounds, or does it say that it has a combined capacity, under the provisions of the law, of 39,000 pounds and does not provide how much shall be on the truck and how much on the trailer?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, it provides a distribution of 39,000 pounds, but the basis is 26,000 pounds for a truck.

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, would it not be possible under the law as it stands today for a truck to haul 38,000 pounds and a trailer to haul 8,000 pounds?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, it is not.

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, does the law not provide that the combined load on the truck and trailer shall be not more than 39,000 pounds?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I have answered that question. What the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Bonbrake, suggests cannot be done. There can be carried on the combined truck and trailer 36,000 pounds.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, we have had presented to the General Assembly in 1927, from different counties, the responsibility of taking over the bridges and erecting new bridges, because the bridges now in operation are unable to take care of the weight that has been carried over them. Without reciting the fact of numerous accidents and the breaking down of bridges, we come here today to figure out the capacity of trucks, and we figure out the weight that the bridges can carry. They tell us they are reducing one ton and a half off the load. In my day railroad cars running on rails did not carry any such weight.

I do not know of any of these truck people who have contributed any of the money to build this $100,000,000 worth of roads; nor will they contribute any more to build the next $50,000,000 worth of roads. I make this prediction: That the roads build since 1924, with an eight-inch thickness of concrete, will be in use, for general public use, ten years hence. I have been in the contracting business, and I know something about construction. I have studied the specifications of every city and of every State of the United States, and naturally we find the best in the eastern States. New York City started about 1908 to put a concrete base under its streets leading from the wharves. They put an eight-inch concrete base, and providing in their law that it should not be opened up,—any connections for light, gas and other things must be made through the sidewalks.

And I will tell you that today they are up to a sixteen-inch base in all the streets they are rebuilding. I am not speaking as to railroad trains running over the highway just yet. Those are for single vehicles coming from the wharves loaded to the deck with merchandise that has been imported into this country. But when you come to the question of trailers, one today and two tomorrow, to lessen the burden on the major engine, and it may grow to three and four,—when you come to the 20-foot roadsways, we cannot pass them.

They say that pleasure riders, who pay taxes to have the use of their machines, who pay drivers' licenses and gasoline tax have no right on these highways? In my day people in the transportation business built their own roads; and they were lucky to get franchises. You come now when we have spent $100,000,000 on our roads, and expect to spend $50,000,000 more, and turn them over to the commercialized business trucks with trailers, with a weight of 36,000 pounds,—18 tons. Now think for a minute, you men who look into the future, of what you can expect two years hence, or ten years hence. All the money that Pennsylvania has given up is turned over to commercialism.

I say, and I say it frankly, I cannot submit to the ruination of the foundation built under the Sproul Act, to be used and commercialized. When that Act was passed it was for the connection with the farmers and the interests of the people from one county seat to the other. You don't hear anybody talking about how you can do for the farmer, but you do hear them talking about how you can ruin what you have made. You have made these roads for the interests of Pennsylvania, not for the interests of people coming from Maryland, Ohio, New York, in your commercialized routes of express companies. I want you to think for a minute if that is the policy to be introduced. If not, give them routes unto themselves.

Fifteen years ago, under the Health Department of this State, we had a plea for separate sewage systems in the municipality, one for the public drainage and another for the private drainage. If we had to do that for health purposes, why cannot these people build their own roads? Give them a right of way, if they are along the center of the public road; but to turn over money we have spent for the organization without any reimbursement,—it will be the damnation of the State and the ruination of the roads.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would just like to answer a question that Senator Bonbrake asked Senator Huffman in regard to the distribution of the load. Under the law of the State it may be 19,000 pounds to the axle, and there may be 19,000 pounds on the third axle—of the trailer attached, or there might be two times 19,000 pounds on the front part of the truck in the distribution of the load; when the trailer it attached the law does not distribute.

And I would like to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I will, very gladly.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie,—in view of the fact that for four years we have been building concrete roads in Pennsylvania for the purpose of carrying 39,000 pound loads —whether he now advocates repealing that law and driving the trucks off the concrete roads.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I do not advocate repealing any law, but I advocate the fact that those concrete roads will not last if acts like this go through.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, further, what he wants —that the roads constructed with the strength and durability to carry 39,000 pounds, and with that right,—what he wants to do with the roads.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I will answer the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, with this statement: For the use and the purpose of commercialism for the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, that is what we want.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I will add to that: It is not Pennsylvania; it is routes that run from Washington, D. C., to Boston and from Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio, into Pittsburgh.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, if he wants to build a concrete wall around Pennsylvania and keep the commercial people and the users of the roads of Pennsylvania out.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I will answer: These roads were built for the motorists and the farmers, never expecting trucks or railroad cars, if I may so call them, carrying 18,000 pounds plus.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I just want to add this to it: There are things that absolutely cannot be hauled on a short truck. We have all seen lumber hauled on a third truck, as well as things like heavy steel building material and heavy steel doors, and things like that. That means they must have long conveyances, for which there must be provision, if these things are to be conveyed at all over the highways of Pennsylania, by which it may be done. And there are instances where it is absolutely impossible to haul the material on the four-wheel truck, and therefore the trailer is attached.

This is simply another method to provide for the facility of conveying those things which cannot be hauled on the fourwheel vehicle, and is not at all intended as a substitution, and the bill will never become practicable if it has in it the idea of substituting six-wheel trucks for four-wheel trucks for general purposes.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I would ask the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, if he ever knew, in the history of his life, anything that was manufactured or made and had to be conveyed that could not be conveyed long before the automobile and wheel-trucks were in existence.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, no, but there were no laws forbidding it, and therefor the people conveyed them.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I would further ask the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, whether in his knowledge of the last twenty-five or twenty-six or twenty-seven years there was not some of the greatest construction of manufacturing plants, and whether that did not necessitate the haulage of a great amount of tonnage long before the automobile was in popular use; and whether there was any trouble in getting the materials to the point where they had to be put into the buildings.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, no, they had to be conveyed, and the laws allowed it,—there was no restriction; and the people conveyed these loads to the motor truck—and they did convey them; but now you would limit them and forbid it so that they cannot convey them.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, oh no! we do not prohibit them. They can use the same system that they have used for the last thirty-five years,—the railroad system, the great big—what we call four-wheel, sixteen-horse trucks; and they hauled ton and tons of tons of rails, of materials and building materials to the places where they were used. They had not to be carried for miles and hundreds of miles over our roads but they conveyed to a point on the siding convenient to the place where they were to be used.

Now you are going to convey them all over the roads, for miles and miles and miles, simply to give the truck people an opportunity to ruin our roads.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, if he has ascertained what the attitude of the Highway Department is on this question.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, yes. As I said the other day before the Committee on Public Roads and Highways, it is always unfortunate, and a bad policy, to swap horses in the middle of a stream. This proposition was started under the old Highway Department, and it had the approval of the Highway Department. A new Highway Commissioner came in and then for a long time the Highway Department was neutral. And now, within the last week, or within a very short time, the Highway Commissioner takes the attitude that he is opposed to this because he is not sure of the ground. The Highway Department is not opposed to it because it is any evidence or proof that the policy is wrong but the Highway Commisioner thinks he has not sufficient knowledge of the subject to advocate it; and therefore he has taken this attitude.

This was originally at the suggestion of the Highway Department—

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I ask that the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, confine himself to answering the question, and not make another speech.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, at the request of the Highway Department this provision had been inserted in the Code, which was passed a little while ago.—

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, will state his point of order.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, the Senator from Lehigh permitted himself to be interrogated. Now then, I ask him not to make another speech.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Lehigh is answering the question.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I am answering the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, as to the attitude of the Highway Department in regard to this proposition.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, they are opposed to it.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, at their suggestion it was incorporated in the Code; and, again at their suggestion, in order that he might have thirty days to investigate and study the matter, at the end of which thirty days the Governor will have to act on this bill,— it was taken out of the Code by the Committee on Public Roads; so that if in thirty days the Governor thought it ought to be vetoed he could veto it without jeopardizing the Code. And the Highway Commissioner promised to further study the question, and if he thinks it proper he will advocate it to the Governor.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, do you know whether the Highway Department is now opposed to this measure? The Secretary of Highways so expressed himself before a meeting of the truck men. Am I right?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, is right in this sense,—that the Secretary of Highways says he has not had sufficient time to study the measure, and he asked me to go along and see the Governor,—which I did. And it was there stated that this should be put in a separate bill; and the Secretary of Highways said they would study it further, and if he thought it not proper he would suggest to the Governor that he veto it.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, we understand that Highway Commissioner Stuart is opposed to this matter?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I understand it practically as Senator Schantz has expressed himself, that up to the time the Highway Commissioner is not sure of his ground and he wants to make a further study of the proposition. For that reason the proposition was made to Senator Schantz that this bill be taken out of the Motor Code (House Bill No. 1566) which was up for passage, and that it be placed in the Armstrong Bill, which is now before the Senate.

As I understand, the Highway Commissioner at present does not approve it but he has an open mind on the subject; and, as Senator Schantz has very clearly expressed it, is keeping it for consideration for thirty days, during which the Governor has to study the bill, and during that time will recommend that the bill be vetoed or approved, as his investigation shall show.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, at this time he has not approved the bill?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, he has not.

Mr. WILLIAMSON. Mr. President, I am rather impressed with Senator Buckman's reply to the Senator from Allegheny. The Highway Department wants to study this question, to ascertain whether the roads are ready for this additional weight.

I think that department ought to go further. I think the Highway Department ought to study, further whether our bridges are prepared to carry this additional weight. Our county bridges were built long before these extensive concrete roads, and our bridges were not built to carry the same load. I think the Department ought to make sure the bridges will carry this load; and I think we should defeat this bill and let the Highway Department give us a report at the next Legislature. Then let us pass this bill if it is advisable to do so. But our bridges will not carry the load now, and it will certainly be a mistake and invite great accidents and disaster. They can hardly carry the loads they are subject to now. I am opposed to this bill.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, there has been a great deal of discussion here about this bill, and much said about the State Highways. How about the thousands of miles of streets in the cities and boroughs that will be subjected to this great load? I represent fifteen boroughs in my Senatorial District and one third-class city and a great part of the City of Pittsburgh, and I know that the streets in the boroughs and the cities that I represent never were intended to have carried upon them 39,000 pounds, or 36,000 pounds, either,—no matter how the load would be distributed; and I think this would be an awful mistake, to further legalize these heavy loads on the highways. Day after day we witness brick streets subjected to these great loads, and the bricks turned on end and great gutters cut in the streets of the cities and boroughs; and I hope that this Senate will not pass the buck of raising the tonnage on our roads to the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Mrs. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE SAMUEL W. SALUS.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President, we have come to the end of another session of the Legislature. For a moment my mind goes back to earlier sessions, and as I look over this body of Senators I recollect that of those who are here now there were only four during the session of 1909. There is the Dean of the Senate, Senator Homsher, and Senator Weingartner, Senator Huffman and myself. And of those four only one has remained continuously in the body since the session of 1909; that is our good friend from Lancaster, Senator Homsher.

Two years later, in the session of 1911, came Senator Sones, Senator Salus, and Senator Buckman; and of that number Senator Salus and Senator Buckman have continued through until today,—Senator Homsher, of course, continuing through from 1909.

After the session of 1911 came in, I think, Senator Dalx. After that Senators Schantz, Leslie and Davis. So we are reminded very forcibly of the changes in this body wnen we think that during the last year five of our members went out by death, and that others go out by failing to become candidates for re-election or by failing at election time. We note the changes.

I want to say that there has never been a time in the history of this Senate when the best men, some of the most prominent men of our State, have not considered it an honor and privilege to be elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate, whether it was a Penrose or a Sproul; and none of the men who have taken prominent part in work of the Senate of Pennsylvania but has felt dignified and honored in that position.

At the beginning of this session it was my privilege to have placed in nomination for the position of President Pro Tempore the name of a gentleman who has served in this body since, as I have said, the session of 1911. He has been my neighbor and my friend; and I want to say to you, as we come to the end of this session, that I think he has been as worthy of this honor, as gracious and generous, as good a home lover and citizen and as representative as any of the Presidents Pro Tempore as have filled that chair.

Sam Salus has always been fair and gracious. He is a fellow who would not stoop to any underhand advantage. He always plays the game according to its rules. He has been a good loser and a gracious winner, and this has been shown in little things many times. We do not have to go back farther than the present week to illustrate this. It seems he was called upon to preside on Monday of this week, with a long calendar before him; and instead of his occupying that position, with his graciousness and his generosity, he said, "No, we want an old-timer. The past-President Pro Tempore I want to preside." So Senator Buckman and I were called to the chair. Just last night he transmitted an order to the Sergeant-at-Arms or Chief of Police or whatever he may be styled, and his assistant, by calling Senator Boyd and Senator Earnest to the chair. But these things are merely points that show the heart of Sam Salus.

A few weeks ago we had the privilege of presenting to the retiring Lieutenant Governor a clock, and I recollect that at that presentation our Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, had pleasant things to say. He suggested that there should have been connected up with that clock a Victor Talking Machine, and that we should have added a radio attachment, very wonderful things, so that when the hour of nine came and the clock was striking he would hear the voice of Harry Baker saying, "The hour of nine having arrived, the Senate will be in order, and will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain." And then the prayer. It might have been criticised by some of our practical Senators as being too long; but be that as it may, the desk would be cleared and then would come the reading of the minutes of the last session, which would be dispensed with by motion of Mrs. Vare. There would be committee reports and all those things.

Now, in connection with that, the thought has been suggested to us that perhaps if there could be provided as a little gift to the retiring President Pro Tempore just that machine, with the radio connections,—one that would, at least in his recollection, in his memory, make him think that he heard the voice and see the person of our beloved Secretary of the Senate, whom we all regard so highly; if he could hear some of the voices of these others,—perhaps he could not see them all so plainly, perhaps their voices, their gestures would not be so natural. It is barely possible that when Senator Boyd was addressing the Senate his voice and his gestures and his appearance would not be given plainly through this machine we propose to present to the President Pro Tempore; but he would see them, and he would see the Senator from Schuylkill as he was being interrogated, or in the midst of some of his most urgent addresses; and he would see and he would say that this machine would be worth while if it only in memory characterizes the men that he had associated with, some of them, for so very, very many years.

At this time it affords me a lot of pleasure to present this gift to him. And, friends, as I think of the little things that come up in the Senate, I think that it is quite analogous to the whole way down the road of life. Sometimes there are disappointments and sacrifices; sometimes a bill may not be passed, an Old Age Pension Bill or something of that kind, but then, just these lines come to me, which seem to indicate our life here and our effort here. They read something like this:

"Yes, this world is full of trouble;
I ain't said it ain't.
Lord, I have had enough and double
Reason for complaint.
Rain and storm have come and frayed me,
Clouds were often gray;
Thorns and brambles have beset me,
But say, ain't it fine today?

"What's the use of always weepin',— Makin' trouble last?
What's the use of always keepin'
Thinkin' of the past?
Each must have his tribulation,
Water with his wine;
Life, it ain't no celebration;
Trouble! I've had mine.

It's today that I am livin';
Not a month ago.
Havin', losin', takin', givin',—
As time wills it so.
Yesterday a cloud of sorrow
Fell across the way;
It may rain again tomorrow,
But say, ain't it fine today?

On behalf of this Senate I take especial pleasure in presenting this machine, that we guarantee to do all of those things,—not on account of any intrinsic value but for the esteem and the regard that we hope in a small way it will indicate. We present a four-tube radio and Victrola; and if we would do anything we surely would deliver it here today, but it will be delivered at his home in Philadelphia.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President and members of the Senate, there is an old, old saying that the man who has himself for a lawyer has a fool for a client. We lawyers know that very well. This puts me pretty much in that same position: I want to be grateful; I want to speak to you; but in the doing of that it will be necessary to talk about Sam Salus, and he is one chap in this world I don't care to talk about. I am, I hope, on good terms with him,—I do not, myself, know just how I stand with him; but I would rather not talk so much about him.

In the first place I want to say, members of the Senate, that Mrs. Salus, whom I had on the phone this morning, would have liked to be here today; but she is not feeling well and wants to thank you for your consideration on behalf of myself and my boy, who constitutes my whole family.

This is a wonderful day. I have tried to live my life along the lines that lead to happiness,—not particularly my happiness, it is the happiness of my fellowman. When my friends, my neighbors and companions are happy I am happy, too; and I would rather travel down the back roads that may appear to be more pleasant but do not at their end have that great thing which I call happiness.

It is a wonderful thing for all of us men. We all ought to be grateful. We all ought to be thankful for being here in the Senate of Pennsylvania. It is a wonderful tribute. And, as I look back on my life, and now as you look back on your lives, we ought to be thankful, as I know we all are, that we are primarily citizens of the United States.

It is the only country in the world. If there is any better country in the world I do not want to hear about it. I would feel hurt if I, even for a single moment, thought there was any place in God's domain that was a greater institution than the United States of America. Primarily I cherish that most highly. After that I am extremely happy in being a citizen of the State of Pennsylvania.

In my loyalty to the United States I see no boundary lines between the States,—it is one great institution. In my loyalty to Pennsylvania I see no boundary lines between the counties. I am extremely happy in being a resident of the City of Philadelphia; and I assure you men that I consider my citizenship of Pennsylvania more closely, cherish it more than I do my citizenship in Philadelphia. I want you gentlemen to understand that I am first of all a Pennsylvanian, and that I know no county line; and I do not believe that I have, in this session, ever placed the interests of Philadelphia over and above the interests of our State. And I hope that sooner or later, if we do not feel that way now, we will.

I do not want to go on in any long speech here today, but I want to say to you men that I am extremely grateful. I have tried in the ways that I thought best to do the right thing. I may not have succeeded in all particulars, and in those particulars in which I have been right I am happy. Wherever I have been wrong I ask your indulgence and consideration. I do not ask for justice, I am pleading for mercy. And I want to leave this Senate today, and I want to go back—I want to be happy but I can not be happy unless you are all happy.

In conclusion I want to pay my respects to one of the finest public officials that any State in any Union has ever had,—and that is my friend W. Harry Baker; and, in addition thereto, his first assistant, Mr. Herman Miller. I thank you.

PRESENTATION OF GAVEL TO HONORABLE SAMUEL W. SALUS.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, Senator Salus and fellow Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, on behalf of the Chief Clerk it is my pleasure and privilege to offer to the retiring President Pro Tempore of this body the insignia of the office which he is about to vacate. During the term of his office he has had everything, as we might say, that goes with a good meal. He has had the soup and the fish, the entree, the meat, the salad, and he has just been given the dessert at the hands of Senator Baldwin; and this that I am going to offer him is, as it were, the cordial that follows a large meal.

This little gift from the Chief Clerk will mean much to Senator Salus and to his family and to those who succeed him. I know that from my own experience,—and I am carried back to eight years ago today, when I received from his hands a similar token, the insignia of the office of President Pro Tempore, in the form of a gavel, as beautiful as this is; and while it has not been useful to me, and this will probably not be useful to him as such, for it is prized too highly to be used in a common way, I know he will keep it and cherish it as one of his most prized possessions.

I recall when, eight years ago, he presented me with a gavel,—when I had been married but a few months; and he cautioned me to be careful of the use thereof. He has been married much longer than that, and I know that he will never have to use this gavel in his home; and I want to report to him that in these eight years I have never had occasion to use that gavel in my home.

Senator Salus, on behalf of the Chief Clerk I take great pleasure in presenting to you this gavel as the insignia of the office which you are about to vacate.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I say to the Chief Clerk and to the members of the Senate, I seem to be on the receiving end of things today; but this little instrument, as we look at it, represents an awful lot. It is a mighty instrument. It means more than one might imagine. This is the emblem of authority. It has been known as the emblem of authority from the beginning of the world,—from Moses down to today. It means much. It is a wonderful instrument—if it is in the hands of the right man.

Authority is a great thing. Authority is a wonderful possession and a wonderful thing for anyone to have control of, provided authority has not control of that particular person. Properly handled it is a wonderful right and privilege. Improperly handled it is a dangerous instrument in the hands of the man who has it. I hope that if in the balance of my life I ever have authority of any kind, I personally will remember the statements I make here today.

I thank the Chief Clerk and all others connected, for this wonderful gift; and it will be, as Senator Buckman says, one of the things that I will cherish as long as I live.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE AUGUSUS F. DAIX, Jr.

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President and members of the Senate, and the Honorable Augustus F. Daix, Jr., of Philadelphia: It gives me great pleasure to present to you, Senator Daix, my colleague, my neighbor, my friend, this beautiful rug that in its present condition forms the background of terrified disciples of Democracy, as a little remembrance from the members of the Committee on Judiciary General of the Senate of Pennsylvania, of which committee you are the chairman and over whose deliberations you have presided with dignity, with courtesy, with dispatch and with ability.

May it adorn your home, sweet home,—made all the sweeter by the love and devotion of many years. May it be a silent but a beautiful tribute to our efficiency and your honesty and your fairness as a public servant of the great people of this Commonwealth. In all your beautiful tomorrows—and may they be many—even when the clouds appear and the darkness comes, may this little present from your committee cast a ray of lingering and enduring sunshine into your life. May it ever be an evidence to you and to yours of the respect and the confidence and the esteem in which you are held by the members of your committee; and may it ever serve to take you back, in the years that are to come, and make visible again in your mind your colleagues, the scenes and the surroundings of the Senate sessions of 1927, with their treasured associations and their cherished friendships.

It is with great pleasure that your committee presents to you the rug which hangs, as I have said, beyond Democratic Headquarters.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, Senator Bonbrake and members of the Senate: The acknowledged orator of the Senate is apt to be caried away, no matter what the subject matter may be, in speaking in too much of what I might call "eulogistic terms."

When I look back down a memory lane from the time of 1913 until the present I agree with the Senator from Potter,

Mr. Baldwin, that there have been many changes,—some beyond the Great Divide have gone, and others have not seen fit to return to the body of the Senate; but in all that time deliberations of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have always stood as they always will stand the comparison with those of any other Commonwealth of this great United States of ours.

In accepting this gift from the members of the Senate I would like in my poor way to have fancy enough in thought to go on out through that window, so to speak, on that rug and travel on it in a flying escapade through this great Commonwealth, having but one purpose—that I might, in going over each county, or in going over each district in which a Senator lived, drop one rose, with the sweet kindness of thought that I would have for the manner in which they have treated me in this body in the lapse of all these years.

"I would like to live in a house by the side of the road,
The men that are good and the men that are bad;
As good and as bad as I.
Where the race of men goes by;

"I would not sit in the scorner's seat
Or hurl the scorpion's lance,
But would live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man."

And that is what this Senate typifies in all the discussions that have taken place; and every one, when the curtain has been rung down,—behind the scenes the fellowships stood as strong and as great as ever.

And so, in leaving you for the session of 1927, I too hope that luck will be with me, so to speak, and that I may come back again. For the greatest thing that men can have in all this world of ours is loyalty and friendship such as I have always had.

They say that riches take wings and that comforts vanish; and that all hope but that love alone stays with us, because love is God. And may the love of God and the love of friendship remain and stay with us all now and forever.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE HORACE W. SCHANTZ.

Mr. MacDADE. Mr. President and members of the Senate: I feel somewhat abashed at this time to address you, because I was informed that I was to make the presentation speech; and there are some of us who sometimes meet this situation with trepidation. But upon my feet it seems that feeling of temerity is wiped away, as I look into your faces and think of the days gone by and what this occasion means.

It was my pleasure to circulate among the members of this body the petition for the subscription by which these rugs could be brought before you and so displayed and presented in due time to those who were becoming the recipients of these gifts. It was the first opportunity that I had to personally touch each of you, and after I had concluded my duties I thought how true the adage "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin." And that gentleman, every man a friend of the recipients of these is the way I am feeling toward all of you,—every man a gifts. And how sweet it is to think that all in this great body, as far as friendship is concerned, were loyal friends to each other.

Reference has been made to loyal friendship, and I am quite in accord with the feelings and the motives which prompt these occasions; and I am quite sure that in the years to come, and when we look down the vista of years and recall the scenes and the associations that we have formed, we will be very glad to say, "We were Senators together,"—as it is in individual life, "We were boys together." And that always brings up, more or less, a pleasure as well as pathos; and as the life-line shortens and life's pathway lengthens we look back to those days and recall our friends, our loyal friends, and our life becomes instinctivery sweeter and purer because we had loyal friends, and in my judgment of life the cardinal virtues are honesty, courage and loyalty to friends. And it is absolutely true, as Emerson has said, "A loyal friend is a masterpiece of nature," and in God's handiwork that masterpiece of nature, does it not remind you of the words of Shakespeare, when he said; "The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried; grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel."

And in the days of Socrates, who was wise and experienced and to whom the youth of the land would flock, to get wisdom from him, when asked why he was erecting such a small home, replied, "Oh! if I could only fill it with true friends!"

And the old story of Damon and Pythias rings true now as it did in the days gone by,—that Damon was willing to make the supreme sacrifice for his friend Pythias, who had been delayed by storm and shipwreck. And when Damon was led out to the scene of execution, by reason of the decree of the tyrant, the Emperor,— Pythias appeared upon the scene, and the beautiful comradship and love and esteem for each other as displayed upon that occasion moved that tyrant to say, "Oh! if I only had a friend like you, how I would give all my wealth." And Damon's life was saved.

Loyal friendship, the balm and saviour of life, is the sweetest tribute of right living that I know! And when I speak of this loyal friendship I speak of the friendship that I have for the recipient of this beautiful oriental rug, and which I believe that he has for you and for me.

I have met the recipient of this honor on other occasions than in this Chamber in the heat of battle. I have seen his social side, far, far removed from these scenes, as we have traveled together; and the more I have seen of him the more I have admired and esteemed his manly virtues. He is every inch a man. In presiding over the deliberations of the Committee on Appropriations he has sought to do justice to all, and I am quite sure that we are unanimous in the opinion that he has accorded to us all that we could reasonably expect, for those organizations set up in our counties, and the recipients of the State's bounty.

He has wielded the sceptor with discretion, and having in mind to promote the best interests of the Commonwealth. And what are we here for? What is our interest in public life? Is it to serve selfish interests? Is it not to promote the welfare of humanity, so that the people may remain free and independent, to be contented, as was the wish of our forefathers? Does not the blood course through our veins just the same as it did through the veins of our forefathers in the days gone by? Are we not masters, and not vassals? Do we not stand just the same for the flag unsullied, for laws unpolluted and for civil righteousness?

In all my experience in this body, for five sessions, I can say truthfully that I never knew of an unmanly act on the part of any Senator. I never knew the breath of suspicion to be upon any Senator. I look upon this as the greatest deliberative body in the United States,—and I do not except the United States Senate,—where men arise in deliberation with forethought and well-molded opinions and participate in these sesisons. Who are they? Unobtrusively and without playing in a demonstrative way to the galleries, doing their duty as they see their duty. And it has been my great pleasure to have associated with you. I know not what the future may decree for me but if I do not return to you let me say, in the language of Cleopatra, "Farewell. May the elements be kind to thee always." And if along life's pathway there are any dark shadows, it is my wish that those dark shadows shall turn to dancing sunbeams always.

Senator Schantz, it is my great pleasure,— and a great honor has been conferred upon me,—to present to you this oriental rug; and Mrs. Schantz will also have the pleasure which this occasion affords you, in sharing with you the enjoyment I know you will have in having this beautiful rug placed upon the floor of your home.

I often think, as Senators here, far, far removed from home, if our thoughts go back home as seriously as sometimes I think they ought to go, much of our success in life—and especially in this body—can be attributed to our helpmates, who have our interests at heart. They share our joys and they share our sorrows.

Has it ever occurred to you that away back home are those who are keeping the home for your return, having the dear ones your offspring about her; and when the eventide comes she gathers those children that you love so well about her, and kneels at the altar to say the evening prayer, asking for God's protection not only for the children—and that they may see the morning light,—but thinking of the one far, far away, engaged in his legislative duties in Harrisburg, and praying also for his sale return,—the queen of the household. And do you know, if I had my way and I could go through all the fields and gardens of the world, and I had my way and I could pluck the gems from the diadems of kings and queens, they would be flashing together and be placed upon the brow of mother, the wife, the uncrowned queen of America.

So Mrs. Schantz is participating in this also; and kindly accept this gift from us in appreciation of the public service that you have rendered, the great social qualities you have; and if it is possible to love a man, man to man, you certainly have the love of this body.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, Senator MacDade and fellow Senators: I feel that I am rather handicapped at this particular moment to respond to the eloquence of my friend from Delaware County. There is always poetry and life pictured before us in these presentations, which are so generously made this morning in the time I am allotted. I have heard so much of the future, and the life beyond, and the part that spans around our own careers that we have behind us, that one is hardly in the mood to say much. And especially do I feel that perhaps in view of the excessive part that I took this morning in the debates before this body, and perhaps being more or less inclined to think that the views of the Senate are not in exact accord with my own ideas at this particular moment that I ought not to say so much.

I am in perfect accord with what has been said about the Senate of Pennsylvania, the friendships that are here made and the memories that we carry away from here with us. Last summer, as Senator MacDade has referred to the incident, I had the honor, with him and Senator Woodward and Mr. Edmonds from the House, to represent the General Assembly of Pennsylvania at the convention of the Association of the Legislators of America, which convened last July in the City of Denver, Colorado; and there we had the honor and the privilege of meeting legislators from the various Commonwealths of the United States. And fine men they all were, and good fellows well met. But after all, when I thought back to the Senate of Pennsylvania I could not help but say, "After all, I do not believe that there is another legislative body superior to that of the Senate of Pennsylvania."

There are five members left who were in this body when I came here in 1915 and we have served continuously since. I believe that three who had been members previously have since returned and are with us today. All the others have either departed or have entered upon other fields of life. I have in mind one particular case, of one member who had been a member of this body and who then went to the Congress of the United States and then resigned and came back to the Senate of Pennsylvania, saying that he preferred to be a member of this dignified body to being a member of the Congress of the United States.

Today we have in our membership several who have served in the great Congress of the United States. Today they are members of this body, and consider it a great honor to be here, and a much greater honor to be permitted to serve at the head of the important committees which are a part of the organization.

During my brief career I have been privileged to serve as the Chairman of the Library Committee, Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, and, during the war—when the Government ran the railroads—as the Chairman of the Railroad Committee. And finally I became the Chairman, by your designation, of the Committee on Appropriations; and let me tell you that that is a great job, and one that requires the utmost attention.

It gave me great pleasure to see this morning that within the twinkling of an eye you voted to adopt the General Appropriation Bill, which was the product of the Appropriation Committee, without the batting of an eye or the raising of a question you voted an appropriation carrying over a hundred millions of dollars of the moneys of the taxpayers of this great State of Pennsylvania so that it might continue its functions and its activities for the next biennium.

I do not intend, I do not expect to continue in service as the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations. I learned this morning that the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations of the House has resigned. So in the session of 1929 there will be new heads in the House and in the Senate, probably of these great committees. And I want to say to whoever succeeds me that way I hope he will stand with both feet on solid ground, and see that the Legislature of Pennsylvania, which provides the revenue, also makes the appropriations; and while this Senate and the General Assembly are glad for advice and glad for cooperation, nevertheless, since we raise the revenue we also should make the appropriations. I believe firmly in a budget and in a budget department, but after all should not that department be under the control of the General Assembly?

I thank you members of the Senate from the bottom of my heart on behalf of myself and of Mrs. Schantz and all other members of the family who will have the pleasure of using this fine rug.

I am glad it is strong and durable. As we grow older we are apt to get heavier, and I am sure that there will never have to be any fear that the weight will be extraordinary for the strong fibers of that foundation which will go on the floor of the home which I have the honor to enjoy.

And so I say, I accept this not for its intrinsic value but as a token, as a memory which I will take with me through life of the kindheartedness and the friendship and the cooperation of the splendid membership of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

I wish you all well. I hope we will all meet in 1929. And I assure you that nothing has ever come into my life which is more deeply appreciated and more highly respected than your friendships, your goodwill and the kind tokens which you have given me to take home.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President and Fellow Senators: Again I can say that this is hardly an appropriate time for me to utter many words, especially in view of the fact that this is the election for the interim of the Senate and not for the opening of a new session. It would hardly be appropriate to discuss policies when we are about to adjourn and return to our respective homes for another period of two years.

I want to thank you, each and every one of you, for the honor you have conferred upon me in electing me to this distinguished position. In looking over the history of Pennsylvania we find that some of our greatest and most distinguished citizens have had the honor of presiding over the Senate of Pennsylvania. To be a member of this dignified and distinguished body is a great honor in itself, and to be honored by our fellow members by the election to the office of President Pro Tempore adds much to that honor and dignity. In the line of predecessors of Presidents Pro Tempore of the Senate you have the Honorable Boies Penrose, the Honorable William C. Sproul, the Honorable Edward E. Beidleman, the Honorable A. E. Sisson, one of our distinguished former members, whom we have the honor to have with us today as a guest, and the illustrious members of this body who are present today and who have preceded me; so that I say I accept the office as a great honor, and I trust that I will be able to uphold the traditions of my predecessors and whenever the President will find it agreeable to him, convenient and suitable, to have me take his place and preside, I shall try to do it with impartiality and fairness to all. It is an easy matter to preside over a body of intelligent men, such as we have in this fine membership.

This legislature has been most sincere, strutinizing and industrious; and the members are entitled to commendation for the manner in which they have performed their duty as representatives of all the people of this Commonwealth.

The session has been comparatively short, marked by little of a sensational nature. It has not attracted as much attention as have some that have gone before. And yet, in actual results, it can be ranked with any. It is not necessary to pass great quantities of legislation or do something of a radical nature in a session to make it worthy. The one which meets the needs of the present moment and meets them in such a manner as to give relief or remedy now and at the same time protect the future has performed a full maximum of service to the Commonwealth. This the present session has done intelligently and decisively.

All legislation is a meeting of many minds. Men and women gather here from every section, with divergent opinions on practically every subject to come before them. As a result of contact and interchange of these opinions a common ground is found; both extremes are avoided and enactments are made which meet the demand of all fair and reasonable people no matter from what walk in life they come.

Under a system of party government, such as ours, we must have party leaders. Frequently they are not found in the legislative halls. But whether in or out, their influence is potential and far reaching and can be either a help or a hindrance to the enactment of wise and beneficient legislation.

These party leaders, in their attitute toward public questions, can be either broad-minded and broad-guaged, or they can be selfish and grasping.

The harmonious attitude of the Pepublican State leaders and particularly the State chairman, Mr. W. L. Mellon, deserves mention; and facts which have been obscured should be emphasized. One of the foremost enactments has been the amendment of the Workmen's Compensation Law, the readjustment of which was advocated in the inaugural address of Governor Fisher. Both capital and labor have pronounced views on every phase of this subject. Chairman Mellon can be ranked as one of the largest employers in the State and, in a business sense, might be called typical of that group. And yet, the Republican State Organization, through him, exerted its entire influence in behalf of a bill which increases compensation for the toiler to the extent of 20% over previous schedules. This means that millions of dollars more must come out of the pockets of the so-called capitalists, or, as some call them, the vested interests and go to the relief and support of the workingman of Pennsylvania. This demonstrates conclusively that the Republican State leadership has elevated the protection of humanity above the protection of wealth.

It was this leadership that brought these conflicting opinions together in agreement on a measure conferring still greater benefits on the employee. The harmonizing of opposing opinions on the Workmen's Compensation legislation by the Republican State leadership has been characteristic of the course of practically every important piece of legislation considered at this session.

The gasoline tax also should be mentioned. The enactment of the bill carrying a 3 cent tax strikes vitally at the private business of the Republican State Chairman, Mr. Mellon. Here he demonstrated again that the interests of the State are superior to that of any individual group and back of this measure he placed the full strength of the Republican Party, even though its passage meant a financial loss in a business way to him.

These two specific instances of unselfish leadership upon the part of the State Chairman will permit the dominant element of the Republican party to meet, with stubborn facts, the challenge that opposition to the Old Age Pension Constitutional Amendment Proposal was motivated by a desire to save the rich.

Credit must be given to Governor John S. Fisher for the part he played in bringing about the achievements of this session. He has translated promises into performance. His inaugural address outlined a constructive program of comprehensive legislation which was extremely helpful to the legislature in its deliberations.

Governor Fisher's contribution in the matter of election reforms has added lustre to his administration and to the Republican Party. In assuming that leadership Governor Fisher did not capitalize it for his own political advantage. He avoided rather than sought the limelight of publicity, preferring to secure results rather than futile applause. He advocated amendments to the election laws that were basically sound. They were of course, subject to criticism and opposition. Standing firmly for what he believed to be right, Governor Fisher was reasonable enough to realize that to secure a maximum of result opposing thoughts must be reconciled. He met the situation in a manner that won general public approval.

State Chairman Mellon's sympathetic and earnest co, operation with the Governor in meeting this situation, too, is worthy of the higest commendation. Qualities of leadership were never better demonstrated.

It is worthy of record that the utmost harmony has existed between the executive and legislative branches of the State government. Governor Fisher has been patient and tolerant, and extremely considerate of the prerogatives of the legislative branch. Unlike some executives, he has never attempted to dominate and always has refused to wield the big stick or gain publicity by grand stand plays at the expense of someone else. His policy has been to assimilate conflicting opinions, but to stand firm when firmness was necessary to safeguard the public interest and the future of the Commonwealth.

Thus, because of the splendid team work of the Senate and House, Governor Fisher and the Republican Organization, under the leadership of Chairman Mellon, results that are highly beneficial to the Commonwealth have been obtained. So the members of the General Assembly may return to their homes with a pride, worn outwardly with modesty, but inwardly with satisfaction that they have done their share in the way of service rendered which is, after all, the most that anyone can do.

I trust that at the opening of the session of 1929 we may all be back to greet each other upon the opening of that session. I trust that each and every one of you in the meantime will be happy and prosperous and all be reelected. Those of you who have the misfortune of having to go through a contest for your return in 1929, if there is anything we can do, those of us who are more fortunate and will not have to go to the bat in 1928, at your call we will be at your service and assist you in every way possible. I thank you again for the honor and wish you well until we meet again in 1929.

RESOLUTION

RESOLUTION CONGRATULATING THE SPEAKER.

Mr. VOLTZ offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, April 14, 1927.

Whereas, When this House adjourns sine die today, at Noon, it marks the close of the shortest session of the Legislature of the Commonwealth for more than a score of years; and

Whereas, In this short space of time there has been considered by this House more than twenty-five hundred bills; and

Whereas, This unprecedented record of speed in the consideration of legislation is necessarily due to an exceptional cause; and

Whereas, It is the opinion of this House that the cause of this achievement by the House is due to the outstanding ability and indefatigable labor of its Speaker; and

Whereas, We feel that to him should be given all the credit of the saving to the Commonwealth of the thousands of dollars which will be unexpended by reason of the curtailment of the Session; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the House extend to our Honorable Speaker, the Honorable Thomas Bluett, our congratulations upon the manner in which he has speeded the business of the Session, upon his ability as a parliamentarian and upon his fairness in dealing with us, and that we extend also our thanks to him for the time we have had saved for our private interests, and for the early date at which we will be permitted to return to our homes and explain to our constituents.

SPEAKER BLUETT IN THE CHAIR.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in the midst of all kinds of conflicts a good angel some times appears and when conflicts rage and run wild good old Santa Claus comes back. In our midst we have the same old gentleman that we had several sessions ago and last session. Santa Claus as a rule is white haired, but our Santa Claus is decorated with coal black. I want to, at this time, Mr. Speaker, ask permission of the House that Santa Claus be again re-introduced to the House and that he may perform the good work this session as he has done in the past. I yield the floor to my colleague from Philadelphia, Dr. Heffernan.

PRESENTATION EXERCISE.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, for a number of years it has been the custom here at the close of the session for the members to give to the Speaker and the officials and employes around the House a gift of remembrance. These gifts that will be presented this morning have been due to contributions given to me by members of the House. The members feel, of course, that it is not of great value, what we have to offer the Speaker and the officials and employes, so much as it is an expression and recognition of their services and the high feeling of regard that we hold for them. You all want to get home as quickly as possible and we are not going to detain you any longer with speech making.

It is my pleasure at this time, Mr. Speaker; through the kindness of the members of the House, all of whom have in their hearts a very, very warm feeling for you, and that warmness for you is felt throughout the Commonwealth, because of your uniform fairness and courtesy to every one in your office to present the gift of the House to you. We never had a better Speaker or a more honorable Speaker than you, and I have passed through the terms of about four of them. At this time, as a slight expression of their esteem for you the members of the House present you with this solid mahogany desk and this beautiful mahogany book case and also with fifty volumes of Elliott's works, works that you love, I know; and so we present this to you with all our hearts, and we wish to you and to yours good luck in all of your undertakings, and we hope you will live to be with us for a long, long time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Heffernan, and my friends in the Legislature, if you have appreciated my services in presiding over your body I can assure you that I doubly appreciate your help, your co-operation and your support. If we have had success in this session of the Legislature it is due not to me but to you because there never was a thing I asked you to do that you did willingly do. There was not an occasion when I needed your support that you did not give it to me, and I appreciate that in full measure. I appreciate and shall cherish as long as I live the good fellowship that existed here in the 1927 Legislature. When we first went into session, or rather when we had our caucus of the Republican Party on the night preceding our going into session, you will recall that I said at that time that one of the strongest appeals, I thought, for causing people to want to come back to the Legislature was the good fellowship that was found here in its midst, and I am satisfied that you members who have been here for the first time now realize that that is a fact. I know you do, because many of you have said it to me and I am sure you will like, if possible, to come back again and mingle in the halls of the Legislature and again become part of the great work of making the laws of this greatest of all the Commonwealths we have in this Nation.

It has been a great pleasure to me, I can assure you, to preside over your deliberations and I shall always cherish, as I say, your good fellowship which I am sure you have towards me because it has been manifested to me in many, many ways. I should do that without these good gifts you have given to me, but with them I shall have additional reminders of this session of 1927, and I assure you I shall cherish them and I am looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to using this beautiful desk and these wonderful books, and to looking at this beautiful book case and thinking of you every time that I do.

I want at this time to thank the clerks and the employes and all in any way connected with the House of Representatives for their co-operation and their support. They have worked here indefatigably from the beginning of the sesion to the end; they have never shirked a duty, and if we had not had the cooperation of all of you, the sterling support of these men at the desk, the clerks, the employes, the pages, the reporters, and, yes, the newspaper men besides, I am sure we would not have been able to get through this session of the Legislature in accomplishing more work in a shorter space of time than I think has been accomplished in many, many years of legislative procedure. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for these gifts, and I want now to say to you in closing that I wish you all God speed and good luck.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We now recognize the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Talbot.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, pursuant to my general custom, I am on my feet under orders. My remarks this morning, Mr. Speaker, are supposed to be addressed to the Chief Clerk of this House and in view of that fact I would ask you, Mr. White, to rise.

Delaware County during the session of 1927 has probably occupied a peculiar spot. My colleague, who sits on my right, has always been as you know the stormy petrel of the House, but since he has grown older and his heart has grown softer he has been in accord with the rest of the members from Delaware County.

Always someone's loss is someone's gain. We had as a chief clerk of this House for a number of sessions, a man from Delaware County that you all learned to love, and after he was called to the Great Beyond there were quite a lot of members of this House who wondered what kind of a man they might present to you to occupy his position. Our present chief clerk was called to his present duty during the extraordinary session of 1926. Mr. Chief Clerk, I have mingled with the ladies and gentlemen of this House during the extraordinary session and the regular session of 1927. You have won in our hearts a big part of our hearts and it, therefore, affords me much pleasure on behalf of this House to present to you not what their thought is in the way of words but something that you may wear, and when you do that you may realize the feeling of the members of the 1927 session toward you. On behalf of the House I present to you these studs and buttons consisting of eleven diamonds in all. May these diamonds shine and may they be brilliant in your life and may you live long and enjoy them.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Talbot and members of the House, I don't know what I have done to warrant this display of good feeling as presented here. I came here to serve you. I have done the best I knew how; if I have not done as much as I should have done it was because I did not know. Whether I ever come back or not I want to say that I certainly appreciate the help that you have all given to me in carrying out the duties of this office; I appreciate the assistance given to me here at the desk and the kindliness of the Speaker and of all you members, and I thank you ladies and gentlemen for this expression of regard that you have given to me.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We now recognize the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Honorable Clinton Sowers.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, a most pleasant duty has fallen to my lot. So pleasant is it to me that I will perform it with difficulty. We have as a clerk in this House one of the best that the House ever had, a gentleman, a friend, in general a man, a man with all of the attributes of a good man; a man who knew neither friend nor foe in his services to the members of this House; a man who never tired in his desire to help and a man who never failed to help when asked. We have in that clerk one of the most successful farmers in the state of Pennsylvania and as we today show our esteem and our admiration and our good friendship for him I know you like myself will utter a prayer that God may keep the frost away from the apples.

Mr. Speaker, the Resident Clerk of this House, the Honorable Milton K. Burgner, has never been late one day, he has never retired early and whenever he was needed we have found him at his post carefully, accurately and conscientiously keeping the roll. There was never a verification of the roll made in this House where a single inaccuracy was found and that is a record that is great in itself and shows what a good man he is.

Milt, on behalf of the girls and boys, the young girls in this House, with their good wishes and our good wishes I desire to present to you this token of our friendship and esteem and may you cherish it and whenever you look at it remember it is an emblem that tells you that our friendship is at your command in the future.

Mr. BURGNER. Thanks. Thanks.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Hall.

Mr. HALL. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the House, in a home facing the Capitol park there was born some years ago a child. No doubt as a boy he wandered into the legislative halls of the capitol and viewed the dignified senators and the representatives toiling at their arduous duties, even as you and I. We have no doubt that when he gazed with awe upon the work being performed here there grew within his heart an ambition to become associated with these men. In 1907 his ambition was realized and I. Dale Meals became the Assistant Resident Clerk of the House. He has served efficiently for eleven terms or eleven regular sessions and one extraordinary session. You of the present session know how cordially he has always greeted you. He has always done what he could for all the members of this House whether they were of the majority party or of the minority party. It gives me great pleasure at this time to present to you, Mr. Meals, a beautiful banjo clock, with the understanding that if at any time you should no longer have to be particular about the time of day you may take the clock down from the wall and play yourself a little tune.

Mr. MEALS. My friends, once more I thank you heartily.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Now comes the fireworks. I take pleasure now in calling upon the Honorable Wilson Sarig of Berks County, who will make a presentation to one whom we hold in our hearts very dear and of whom we are all very fond.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of this House, if the members of the House will bear with me just for one moment I want to make a little digression from the task that has been assigned to me by the Chairman. I feel I should be ungrateful if I did not take advantage of this moment to express on behalf of myself and on behalf of every other minority member of the House my and our sincere appreciation of the very fair way in which the Speaker of the House, Mr. Bluett, has always treated us. There has not been a scintilla of prejudice or partisanship shown toward us at any time and I take this opportunity to extend our sincere appreciation for that and to commend him very highly.

To the majority members of this House I want to say that Pennsylvania is a great empire in itself with its nine millions of people representing a vast diversity of interests, political, social and economic. It is only natural that in a great Commonwealth like that there should be a great deal of difference of opinion on the various matters of legislation that come before this House because as long as this House remains a representative body the ideas and the opinions of the people back home will always find expression here. The finest tribute I can pay to the members of the House is to say that when the legislative issues have passed from consideration that you have never permitted our differences of opinion to interfere with our personal and our social relations, and one of the things that I always remember in my legislative days is the many contacts, the many social contacts and the many friendships I have made with the members of the majority party in this House. I have always been treated with and have always been given the same respectful attention as has been accorded to every member on the majority side even though you may have frequently disagreed with the issues which I have represented.

It is my great pleasure this morning to remind you of the fact that we have among the reading clerks one who has served us for seven sessions and during those seven sessions I know that he has won for himself a very warm spot in the heart of every member of this House and not only in this session but in the sessions of the past. If ever it may be truly said of any man, "He is the right man in the right place," I am sure that that applies to him, the gentleman about whom I am going to speak in just a minute. The gentleman from Punxsutawney, Mr. Hewitt, will please arise. Mr. Hewitt, it now becomes my very pleasant duty to present to you on the behalf of the two hundred and eight members in this session this beautiful clock as a token of their sincere friendship and their sincere appreciation of your services. As you look upon this clock in the quiet and the peace and the repose of your home out in Punxsutawney I want you to see not the hard cold face of a metal mechanism but I want you to read in the face of that clock the sincere friendship and the sincere appreciation of every member of this House and as with your physical eye you look upon that dial plate and I want you to let your mental and spiritual eye carry you back here into this legislative hall at Harrisburg and visualize the hundreds in the hall, at least the members of the House, as we are sitting here this smiling morning and realize their respect for your valuable services here. May you as you hear the "tick tock" of this clock may you see in your mind's eye the heart-throb of the two hundred and eight men and women whom you have served seven terms. The time is here when we must say "Goodbye", and on behalf of the members of this House I say to you "Goodbye, God speed, and good luck".

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I think it is a real tribute to have a presentation made to you by a member, as you term it, of the minority party. On the desk we have no minority party and no majority party; we are the servants of all. As Mr. Sarig has stated, looking upon this clock with a physical eye, let me state this, that as the hours are ticked off they will not be counted as time but they will be counted as one hour closer to the session of 1929 when I hope we will all meet again. I accept this gift in the spirit in which it is given. I would work on this desk for nothing except just for the association of the boys and girls of the House. As is so beautifully written in the quest of the Holy Grail, "Not what you give but what you share, for the gift without the giver is bare; he who gives himself with his alms feeds three, himself, his hungering neighbor and me." I thank you.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the House, it is indeed a pleasure to take part in this interesting service. As we grow older do we not appreciate in a larger and better sense that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Is it not a fact that it is not what we get and keep that makes us big and grand and noble but to a very large extent it is what we give. As we sit here this morning in the presence of the evidence of death is it not proper that our thoughts may be mellowed and that we should feel a throb or heart to heart communication.

It is indeed a great pleasure at this time to present to you, Mr. Martin, who have been uniformly prompt, attentive and courteous, whose service to the members of this House has been such that there has been no occasion at any time to reprove or remonstrate or to find fault, this token of the appreciation of the membership of this House, trusting that your life may be long and successful and that you will return to us again to serve in the same capacity in the same splendid manner.

Mr. MARTIN. I thank you, members of the House.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Pittsburgh, the Honorable Joseph Marcus.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I believe that there are two great things in life if we are fortunate enough to have these opportunities; personal contact which leads to service, and the greatest thing that any man can acquire, the opportunity that presents itself for rendering service. It strikes me that the most outstanding figure in the 1927 session is the gentleman whom I do not ask to rise, because of his tireless efforts in the session of 1927. Having as a rule nothing to say unless spoken to, he guides the destiny of your Speaker. With all due respect to all of the things that have been said concerning our Speaker and his success, if he has been successful, which we all agree that he has been, no man has been more responsible for that success than the gentleman I have in mind. He is modest to an extreme, pleasing of personality, with an address that attracts you to him, courteous, able and refined, and with a knowledge of parliamentary procedure that Pennsylvania may feel proud of that former member of the Legislature from Butler who has toured the Commonwealth with his undivided service to the members of this House. His knowledge of parliamentary procedure is unquestioned; his decisions are very seldom overruled. It is my happy privilege and pleasure to present to you Uncle Jim the gift of the membership of this House. In it is the language that speaks all over the world. It is understood wherever you may circulate it. May its circulation give you added pleasure, joy and comfort; may it give you some of the things that your heart craves for with it the lasting impression of the feelings of the members of the 1927 session, their loyalty, their devotion and their admiration for you as a man, a scholar and a gentleman.

Mr. MOORE. I thank you.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Haines.

Mr. HAINES. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the House, in the orderly procedure of the business in the halls of the legislature we have another man who fills his niche and fills it well; he is the gentleman who is charged with the responsibility of the history of the legislature. I desire to address my remarks to Mr. S. Edward Moore. I want to say in his presence and on behalf of the members of this House that I have the pleasure of presenting to him this envelope and its contents as a small token of our appreciation of his services which have aided so materially in carrying on with promptness the work of this session. If he continues to carry throughout life the same confidence that he enjoys here his journey will be pleasant and his pathway successful.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stadtlander.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, we have heard a number of speeches this morning, and all of them have a tendency to make one feel sad, sad at the idea of parting. You probably look to the future in two years from now, will you and I be here in the land of the living. However, let us dispel all such thoughts at the present time. Let us feel happy that we have had a splendid session, and as Mr. Sarig has said of the Speaker, I shall only voice the sentiment of the Allegheny County delegation that they have been absolutely satisfied with the treatment of our fair Speaker.

We have a Chief Clerk who has been more than courteous, and in his office there is a fair damsel who has always given the glad hand and has the smile ready when we entered the office, and it is with pleasure that we give her something that possibly might light her pathway and make it more pleasant. It is my pleasant duty to present this lamp to our good and congenial friend, Miss Barnett.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Washington, Mr. D. Glenn Moore.

Mr. D. GLENN MOORE. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and ladies and gentleman of the House, many of you no doubt years ago enjoyed hearing General Gordon give his lecture on, "The Last Days of the Confederacy." If you heard that lecture you will remember that pathetic story which he told in it. It was after one of the severe battles of the Civil War that a mortally wounded Johnny Reb was being aided by a Yankee soldier. He did for him all that it was possible for him to do to make his passing peaceful and comfortable. He said to him, "Is there anything more I can do for you?" Johnny Reb said, "Well, Yank, you might pray for me." The Yankee looked a bit embarrassed and said, "Well, Johnny, I can't pray worth a damn but I will do the best I can." General Gordon always closed that story by saying that the recording angel at that point dropped a tear which blotted out the record of the oath.

The gentleman to whom I present this gift this morning needs no apology by me for his prayers, for their chaste English for their reverent tone and for their briefness; I do not think they have ever been equaled anywhere. A few years before his death, the Honorable Champ Clark arose in the halls of Congress and expressed his appreciation for the prayers of the blind chaplain, Doctor Muir, and introduced a resolution asking that all of the prayers be compiled and printed in one volume. I have a copy of that volume and I frequently enjoy looking through it. I think it would be mighty fine, and I am sure all of us would appreciate it if the prayers of our chaplain in the present session and the two previous sessions were sometime compiled and printed in a pamphlet. One thing that has always impressed me and a thing which visitors frequently express their appreciation of, is the reverent attitude of the House while prayer is being offered. That was very markedly illustrated last night. After our period of boyish and girlish pranks the morning session was called and a quiet hush fell over all this chamber as Chaplain Donehoo offered a beautiful and appropriate prayer. I want to assure him that he has the regard and the affection and the appreciation of all of the members of this House and in token of that regard, appreciation and affection it is my privilege to present Doctor Donehoo this little gift.

Dr. DONEHOO. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and ladies and gentlemen of the House, it is useless for me to say how much I have enjoyed not only this session but the two other sessions in which it has been my privilege to serve you as your chaplain. It has been in every way a most delightful service. The friendships and the followships made here I do not think will ever in any way whatever be forgotten by me. One of my causes of gratification is that not only during the session of the House but when the House is not in session I have frequent letters from the members of the House and from friends who have visited with them at the regular and extra sessions. I want to say that last evening when the House was having such a good time one of the members of the Senate, a very good friend of mine, came over. The whole atmosphere was filled with paper, yells, music and everything else, and he turned to me and said, "Doctor Donehoo, if this House gives an evidence of your religious training, your training has been mighty bum." I replied to him that I didn't think so, and that the House was acting fully in accordance with my religious training. My religious training is that when you work you should work and that when your work is over have a good time; to enjoy yourself just as the men were enjoying themselves here last night. To the members of the House, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and all the employes, even the pages, I return my sincere thanks not only for this kindly expression but for the thousands of kindly expressions by word of mouth which I have had during this session.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Luzerne County, Mr. Jones.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, as a first term member from Luzerne County I fail to understand why the Honorable Mr. Heffernan should pick on me to make a presentation speech. I am not an orator and if I say "git" that means "get" and if I say "ye" it means "you", and if I say a word you don't understand, compare it with some word which sounds like it and that is it. I don't understand why you should pick on me when you have such orators as John J. Hefferon, John C. Hermansen, Edward Brown and last but not least, Christ Miller of our organization. We have a real orator over here and I understood he would be chosen to make this presentation speech but they didn't want to excite him and that is our honorable Reverend Lorenzo D. Thomas.

I think I must mention one incident which occurred recently in regard to the gentleman about whom I am making this presentation speech. When I was running for the office of representative very unfortunately for the party I had no finances. I was called in by these gentlemen with the honorable deceased brother, Richard Aston, and he notified us that we were each assessed one hundred and fifty dollars for the campaign. I reached down in my pocket and brought out the whole bankroll and I discovered I had seven dollars and twenty-one cents, every cent I had in the world. I said, "There's the whole bankroll; may it help the campaign all it is worth." This gentleman said, "You are the worst bankrupt candidate we ever had on the ticket." Now this gentleman came right back and said, "You don't want to be a slacker," and Mr. Aston said, "I will lend you the money." I said, "Well, the Lord only knows if I will ever be able to pay it back." Then this gentleman to whom I make this speech said, "If you are not able to pay it back and you are not elected, I will pay the one hundred and fifty dollars." That is not all of it but it showed me the fine heart that he has as he knew my financial status was just as I represented it. This gentleman is always loyal to a friend and has even gone so far as to mortgage his property to help his friend into a political berth. Up in Luzerne County we love this man. No one calls him by the title of "Mister". There are ninety-three thousand people up there who call this man "Davy Thomas;" he is just Davy Thomas. We love him up there and evidently you fellows down here love him just the same as we do. I want to at this time and it gives me the greatest pleasure to present this token of our esteem to my fellow townsman and good friend, Davy Thomas.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I came here first in the session of 1913 as a member, and as the Chaplain referred to in his prayer this morning and also the Speaker in his remarks that we become boys once again. In my fourteen years experience I don't remember of good fellowship prevailing more than it did here last night and after all there are the things which make us feel that we all want to come back here two years hence.

I want to thank the members of this House for this little token and I want to impress upon all of you again that no matter in what part of the country or in what part of the state you may be, when you run across an old member or you happen to meet a new member, it puts me in mind of this little poem, and you feel like grasping him by the hand and saying this:

"I wish I could live the old days over; just once more.
I wish we could hit the trail together; just once more.
Brothers the time is slipping by.
With many a tear and many a sigh,
Let us chime together, you and I,
Just once more."

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We are now going to call on the greatest little fellow for his inches in this land, Alexander the Great.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, may I disgress for just a moment, because it may be the last time before we leave this session that I have an opportunity of being on my feet. I want to express to each and every member of this House my deep appreciation for the kindly and courteous feeling of the members of this House and kindly and courteous treatment which I have received from each and every member of this House during this session. It is always sad to part with friends and especially those with whom I have become so attached as I have to the members of this House at this session. It has certainly been a great pleasure to work with you and while at times we have disagreed there has always been that kindly and friendly feeling between us, that notwithstanding our differences after it was all over that grand situation still existed where we could each grasp each other's hand and call each other "friend". I shall remember these associations and these pleasant days of this short session as long as I shall live and I hope that the path of each and every member of this House will be strewn with roses, however; I am still reminded of the fact that where there are roses there are always some thorns, but I hope that the beauty of the rose will attend you all the rest of your lives.

Now, to return to the point on which I was requested to speak. It is always a pleasure to praise a person, especially a public servant for work well done, and this is one of the pleasant occasions here at the ending of this session when we take a few moments to give expression to our appreciation of those services of those who have been serving us during the session and who have done their work so well. At this time, members of the House, it gives me great pleasure to present a small gift to one who for two sessions has attended the Speaker of this House so faithfully. And while I join with all my heart in what has been said about the Speaker of this House, I do feel that the gentleman to whom I am going to present this small token has to a great extent assisted the Speaker in the good work that has been done. He has been faithful in every respect in every duty that has been placed upon him. He has been courteous to us as members and he has been always ready to do at all times what we ask him to do, and now, Mr. Eberle, it gives me great pleasure to present to you at this time this small gift and to say to you that the value of it is not in the size of the gift but it is in the feeling which the members of this House have toward you at this time, and I hope you will receive it in the same spirit in which it is given.

Mr. EBERLE. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, and pals, or I might say, "members of the bull pit", I thank you.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now call upon the lady member from Allegheny County, Miss Grimes, who will present a gift to one whom we all love and esteem here. Sickness has overcome him recently and he is not just in the best of shape for which we are all sorry, so I ask Miss Grimes to say a few words to Mr. Clarence E. Seiler.

Miss GRIMES. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, it gives me very great pleasure to be singled out as one of those who are honored this morning by being permitted to present these gifts to those who have served us during this present session. We sit here in our places doing our work more or less well, paying attention sometimes and with wandering minds a lot of other times, probably most of the time, and things would be chaos if it were not for the watchful little army down in front who respond to our every wish and who are marshalled under the leadership of our faithful friend, Mr. Seiler. I always think that employes of every kind invariably reflect the attitude of their head and the courtesy and pleasant manners of the pages that help us so much in our work must be the reflection in the same way of their efficient head, Mr. Seiler. It is with great regret that we learn that he is ill. I hope we have not pressed too heavily upon his services and also hope that it is nothing that we have done that has made him sick, and I also hope that he will speedily be restored to health and that next session we shall see his smiling face in the accustomed place.

Before I end, let me say that I appreciate the courtesies shown to me at all times by the members and the officers and the employes of this House. I regret to leave you all; I feel I have a number of brothers and sisters here and it is with great regret that I say "Goodbye" to all of you.

And now it gives me very great pleasure to present this check to our good friend, Mr. Clarence E. Seiler.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Hermansen, desires to make a short announcement.

Mr. HERMANSEN. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and members of the House, as one of the representatives from Luzerne County who was honored by this body by being appointed to represent the state at the funeral of our late member, Mr. Richard Aston, I want to say that we felt and appreciated very much the consideration to our honored member. Mr. Aston was a member that we had learned to love and to appreciate and to honor for his past record. Mr. Aston was always consistent, honest and sincere and he always used the best judgment. We are proud to look up to him as our senior member, and I believe I speak for the whole delegation from Luzerne County, all the representatives from Luzerne County, when I say that we appreciate the consideration given to him by this House at his funeral. In addition to the floral piece which it is customary for this body to give to a deceased member, he also received a piece from the fund sent by Mr. Heffernan which was very appropriate and timely. I want to say that this body can congratulate itself because it has a member like our own brother, Reverend Thomas who is able to make such a very timely and appropriate funeral sermon. I want to thank the members of this House on behalf of the members from Luzerne County for the consideration that was extended to our late colleague, Mr. Aston.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will now recognize the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Nothnagle.

Mr. NOTHNAGLE. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman a members of the House, this occasion of remembering yo friends is certainly very, very fine. I am not going to ta up your time but it is with great pleasure that I have t honor to present this little token to one upon whom we depend at all times, one that we may run to when we do know where else to go. I therefore take great pleasure presenting this to our good friend, Mr. John Fertig.

Mr. FERTIG. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chairman and membe of the House, this is rather unexpected and I am in t position which the officers at the desk here are. Because has not been the practice to present them with gifts, have no prepared speech to deliver. I want to say to yo however, that the fifteen years that I have spent in ser ing the House and the Senate of Pennsylvania have be possibly the happiest years of my life and I hope I m have the pleasure of serving you for many years hereafte It may be that sometimes we are a little crowded in o bureau when we are asked to handle two or three hundr bills a week, but we try to do our best and if you come ba two years from now and we are there we want to assu you that we will still be doing all we can to serve you. want to thank you for this token of your kindness and yo friendship.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. We will not keep you very muc longer. Checks will be distributed to the following peopl To the Reporters, Benjamin O. Locke, Eugene E. Moye John M. Bain; the Journal Clerk, T. A. D. ## THANKS OF HOUSE EXTENDED TO HON. JAMES J. HEFFERNAN

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I wish at this time on the part of the members of this House to express their ful appreciation to Doctor Heffernan and to thank him for the wonderful display of gifts and for the excellent service he has rendered to the members of this House, and I move Mr. Speaker, that the thanks of the House be extended him.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion The motion was agreed to.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, I want to tender to you at this time this piece of furniture which is a badge of your office.

The SPEAKER. Mr. White and members of the House, I want to say again how much I appreciate this further manifestation of your friendship and I will say further to you, my friends, that it will be an official evidence of my authority at home, but our chief reporter says, and he evidently speaks from experiences, "Try to do it."

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HART. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HART. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, while this period of good will and generosity is prevailing, I want to, on behalf of the group of people whom I represent in this House, thank this august body for a splendid testimonial given a few days ago to the colored soldiers who took part in all the wars of this country, from Pennsylvania. When Mr. Fuller, my colleague, and myself came into the House during the session of 1923, we came with the determination to win the good will and confidence of every member of this House. How far we have succeeded in that has been just shown here ten days ago when this House, without a dissenting vote, voted to appropriate the sum of $60,000 to commemorate the services of the colored soldiers who have fought in the wars of this country. We realize that the state of Pennsylvania has spent many millions of dollars in monuments to the memories of the men of all wars, and we realize that that was eminently as it should have been, and when on this occasion you said to the colored people of Pennsylvania that the men of your race who under the glories of an August morning the men who were with Dewey at Manilla Bay and who were with Roosevelt as they went up San Juan Hill shouting and singing, "There Will Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight", that they were sending a message back to this country of ours that wherever it was necessary to depend on men to defend the rights of this country you could always depend upon the negro soldier. And when they were gathered in a great multitude in the World's War on the morning when the Armistice was signed they were singing that same song determined to convey to the people of this country that another time had arrived when our boys would show their valor in defending our country. When this body here put aside every vestige of political affiliation and every vestige of racial difference and said to the colored people of Pennsylvania that they had confidence enough in the colored soldiers who had gone into the wars from Pennsylvania to make that magnificent appropriation, I felt that there was one duty that devolved upon me, and that was to come before this House and to thank you in the name of that splendid gathering of negro citizens of Pennsylvania for your generous contribution and recognition of their services.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hart, under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we have here with us this morning an ex-Speaker of this House, the Honorable Robert Spangler of York. I move, Mr. Speaker, that the Honorable Robert Spangler be given the privilege of the floor to address us for a few moments.

Mr. DIEHM. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ADDRESS OF HON. ROBERT SPANGLER.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it seems very much like old times for me to be standing here and addressing this body at this time. It has been about six years, I presume, since I was the Speaker of this House, and it does seem as though the older we get that the faster time flies. And yet it seems but yesterday that I was one of the members of this House. I didn't come here this morning to address the House and had no idea of being called upon for that purpose, but I assure you that it is always a great pleasure for me to come back to the House of Representatives. There is no legislative body and no body of any other kind where I feel so much at home as I do when I am in this sanctified chamber. I love the work and I love every member of this House. I have not had the pleasure of calling on you up to the present time this year, but I have read of your doings and of your achievements. Your last day here in the session and everything that goes with it seems to me just about the same as it was when I was a member of this House. There is the same god feeling, that same cameraderie, that same love of the work, that there was when I was here, but I believe that this session has not been quite as tempestuus as it was during my last session in the speakership. I don't know as there is any message that I have at this time to give to the House other than to thank you for your kindness in listening to me for these few moments and wishing you God-speed until the next session begins in 1929.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to state to the members of the House that the Committee of Conference has endeavored to be most fair in the distribution of roads, some of which had been inadvertently omitted, and has endeavored to shape the bill in such manner as to make it satisfactory to all the members interested. I trust that you will adopt the Committee's report.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HESS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. Will the gentleman from Lancaster refer to the page and to the line where the roads appear for Lancaster County.

Mr. HESS. There are several pages and lines.

Mr. SOWERS. Can you give me the number of the pages.

Mr. HESS. I cannot, Mr. Sowers.

Mr. SOWERS. Can you remember the number of miles in Lancaster County?

Mr. HESS. I do not.

Mr. SOWERS. It is three hundred miles?

Mr. HESS. No, sir.

Mr. SOWERS. Will the gentleman from Lancaster refer to the pages and lines where the roads appears for Philadelphia County?

Mr. HESS. There are no roads in the omnibus bill for Philadelphia County.

Mr. SOWERS. Can the gentleman explain that omission?

Mr. HESS. I can. In the first place, they made no request; and in the second place, they were given under House Bill No. 630 a special appropriation of $500,000 to enable them to take care of the dirt roads and some of the streets that are in Philadelphia, roads within the confines of the county, the first-class county of Philadelphia.

Mr. SOWERS. How does that sum of money compare with the sum of money to be expended in Lancaster County in proportion to your population and the amount of taxes you pay?

Mr. HESS. Lancaster County would be very glad to have its mileage stricken from the omnibus bill for such an appropriation as Philadelphia has.

Mr. SOWERS. And how does the population of Lancaster County compare with the population of Philadelphia?

Mr. HESS. Lancaster County is still growing and will annex Philadelphia if they don't watch out.

Mr. Sowers. How does the contribution from Lancaster County to the state road fund compare with that of Philadelphia County?

Mr. HESS. Lancaster County's contribution stands out very prominently among the contributions of the counties of the state. It may not be quite as much as that of the county of the first-class, but it is very considerable and is still growing.

Mr. SOWERS. Does this bill provide for any roads in Allegheny County?

Mr. HESS. It does.

Mr. SOWERS. Is there any county in the state that the bill does not provide for any roads?

Mr. Hess. The only one is where they made no request for roads but took their appropriation in bulk.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HESS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SARIG. I would like to ask what the total mileages is in the omnibus bill as it is now before us?

Mr. HESS. The committee is not in a position to correctly state the exact mileage involved in this bill. Since the end of last week there was mileage inserted which the engineers of the highway department were not able to determine correctly the length of. In other words, we had to take the estimates that were made by members on the changes that were made in the bill since the the end of last week, but it is the opinion of the committee that the bill as it now before the members of the House contains in the neighborhood of one thousand miles.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HESS. I will be glad to, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOSES. About what is the mileage allotted to Chester County?

Mr. HESS. Fifteen and a half plus four, or about nineteen and a half miles. I might add that four of those miles were requested by an Ex-Governor of this Commonwealth, Honorable William C. Sproul, and the committee gladly inserted that mileage because of that request, and that is in addition to the mileage requested by the representatives from Chester County.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HESS. I will, yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Hess, can you tell us approximately what mileage each county was to have at the start of this bill?

Mr. HESS. I could not from memory give it approximately.

Mr. HEFFNER. I mean the approximate mileage that each county should have on this bill.

Mr. HESS. No, I could not give the approximate mileage; there is a variation; the larger and more populous counties have somewhat more mileage.

Mr. HEFFNER. Are there not counties where the members of the House and the Senate together have been given less than ten miles?

Mr. HESS. There were possibly two counties that requested less than ten miles, and in those instances they have less.

Mr. HEFFNER. Where it was requested exactly ten miles, were there not counties with a representative and a Senator that got less than ten miles? The amendments presented to the joint committee last night, may I ask, if it is proper, were not inserted in this act?

Mr. HESS. What amendments does the gentleman refer to?

Mr. HEFFNER. The amendments in Huntingdon County. In Huntingdon County where we have a representative and a Senator we have been given seven and two-tenths miles on the record at the time. Would that be credited to Huntingdon County if this report passes the House this morning; would Huntingdon County have that amount on the map of the Highway Department in the omnibus bill?

Mr. HESS. They surely would unless the engineers were in error on their measurements or the printers dropped something.

M. HEFFNER. If the Highway Department's map is correct, it would not matter if this report would pass, even if it is not correct?

Mr. HESS. If the House adopts this committee report it becomes a law.

Mr. HEFFNER. Huntingdon County has been given less than seven miles of road.

Mr. HESS. That is not true if the information given by the engineers is correct. They estimate that mileage as thirteen and two-tenths miles, and I say frankly it was the intent of both committees of the House and of the Senate, and the intent of the Conference Committee that the mileage should be included in this bill for Huntingdon County, and it is the opinion of the Chairman of the committee that it is now in there.

Mr. LABAR. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I understand the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, to say that no county got less than ten miles.

Mr. HESS. The gentleman must have misunderstood me; I said to my recollection there were but two counties that requested less.

Mr. LABAR. I requested thirteen miles and only got seven, and I say that is discrimination.

Mr. HESS. That may have been a difference between your estimate of the length of the road and the highway engineers' measurements.

Mr. LABAR. I know the exact measurements, and it is thirteen miles, and I only got seven miles.

Mr. HESS. We relied on the engineers' measurements.

Mr. LABAR. If they were going to do that, why didn't they cut me out of a small one and give me enough to make ten miles?

Mr. HESS. It is possible that your Senator made that request. I am not sure of that but that happened in several instances.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HAWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HAWS. Mr. Speaker, on Thursday April 7th. there was passed in this House, and messaged to the Senate, and passed finally today by that body a piece of legislation that will take its place in the archives of history of this House of Representatives and forever redound to the credit and attest the judgment of the members of the session of 1927. In his speech on the youth of George Washington, the great Edward Everett, gave a definition of character in the following words: "A great character founded on the living rock of principal, is, in fact, not a solitary phenomenom, to be at once perceived, limited and described. It is a dispensation of Providence, designed to have not merely an immediate, but a continuous, progressive and never-ending agency. It survives the man who possess's it; survivies his age—perhaps his country—his language." Fortunate is this Commonwealth, aye this Nation, whose Fathers, counsellors and defenders have been, not mere models of statesmanship, political acumen, or military genius, but models of character, men who could not be swerved from the path of duty by the siren voices of pride, passion, avarice or fear. In the world today the names of Washington and Lincoln, stir the pulses more than those of Caesar of Richelieu. Boise Penrose's sterling character and manhood will be remembered as such and will serve as model for the youth when this session will long be forgotten. I proclaim this memorial created by House Bill 1054, to be a fitting contribution to the sterling character and statesmanship of that great man Boise Penrose.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, under his question of personal privilege, will be spread upon the Journal.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill, House Bill No. 1544, is a bill which provided when it left the House for the raising of the salaries of some of the clerks and men on the desk. I agreed to sponsor the bill and I believed they were entitled to a raise, but since the bill left this House they have loaded it down with a large number of other people whom I believe are not entitled to a raise, a number of people who are not even entitled to the money they are getting at the present time. I certainly do not feel, at the present time, like sponsoring this bill or concurring in these amendments, and I therefore move that we non-concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HAAS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Alexander.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentlemen from Delaware, Mr. Alexander, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Yes, I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HAAS. If the House does not concur in the amendments to this bill, then the bill would fall, is that not correct?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Yes, sir.

Mr. HAAS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I believe and I believe you all believe with me, that these men here on the desk and a great majority of the men whose salaries are being raised in this bill should receive an increase, and I believe the fair thing to do, even though there may be some who are taken care of in here that are not entitled to it, that this bill should go to the Governor and let him officially decide it, and I ask you to vote the motion of the gentleman from Delaware down.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I didn't want to get into this proposition too far, but there are parties whose salaries would be increased by this bill here to two hundred dollars a month during the interim and I have found out that a number of them have not been in the halls or in attendance during the whole session. I didn't want to bring this out, but I do not think it right to give men who have not been here two days during the session, give men like that two hundred dollars a month that have not earned two hundred dollars for the whole session and then put them on a salary for the rest of the period. I will not agree to go along and sponsor such a bill as that.

On the question recurring,

Will the House non-concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:
